Sex Addiction and Sexually Compulsive Behaviors: Managing Stigma and Misconceptions in Clinical Practice

Presented by

Joshua Pitre, MSW, LCSW, CSAT

Josh is a Licensed Clinical Social worker with a Bachelor of Arts in Social Work from Southeastern Louisiana University and a Masters of Social Work from Louisiana State University.

Josh has worked internationally and locally with a spectrum of vulnerable peoples including, but not limited to: mental health, addiction, family reunification, community interventions, juvenile justice reform, and leading natural disasters mental health response teams. His professional experience includes various Partial Hospitalization and Intensive Outpatient Clinics, college counseling centers and community-based intervention services. He is currently the Director of Clinical Services at Sante Center for Healing.

Josh believes healing begins with self-awareness and vulnerability, and it is his hope and desire to be a guide for those who are searching and attempting to find a voice amidst their pain.

Learning Objectives:

1. Examine common misconceptions around sex addiction.
2. Discuss social and cultural components to stigmas around sexually compulsive behaviors.
3. Explore professional implications for managing misconceptions and stigmas in treating sex addiction and sexually compulsive behaviors.
